Best of all, contemporary crazy quilting allows unlimited potential for original interpretation. The basis for making any item by this method involves putting together a "blank" in the appropriate shape. The blank consists of blank fabric and batting cut to the same size and stitched together. Crazy quilting is then machine stitched onto the blank.

The scrappy alterations to this quilt are similar to the #5 Field Day Quilt. Rather than cutting long strips of fabric, use your scraps and cut the exact amount needed for each block. Aside from the cream background these blocks are made up of 2" and 3 ½" squares. For the scrappy border, get crazy! Just use whatever size you have handy!
